BABY'S DAY OUT: Britney, Kevin and Sean soak up some rays in Miami

OPS! She did it again! Britney "I'm A Good Mom" Spears will surely be taking some heat over her latest mishap with 9-month-old son Sean Preston. It seems the pregnant-again pop star left her firstborn in the sun too long during a weekend romp in Florida.

Britney and hubby Kevin Federline recently spent a weekend in a $2,800-a-night Miami hotel suite. As our photos show, Britney donned a hat and sunglasses - but she left little Sean Preston's face and upper body exposed to the damaging rays of the brutal South Florida summer sun!

"You don't take a baby with rather fair skin and cook him in the sun," Beverly Hills dermatologist Dr. David Stoll, who has not treated Britney's baby, told The ENQUIRER.

"Getting both direct and reflective sunlight - sunlight reflected off the water - is potentially very dangerous to a baby's skin.

"Hopefully she put on waterproof sunscreen - if she put on only regular sunscreen, then it would just wash off.

"Theoretically, a waterproof
