

Plastic surgery is a family affair

GOLDIE & HER SON GO UNDER KNIFE TOGETHER

ONLY in Hollywood does mother-and-son bonding include going off together for an afternoon of plastic surgery.

The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively that Goldie Hawn and her son, actor Oliver Hudson, underwent a nip-and-tuck double feature in late May at the same Beverly Hills clinic. Mom treated herself to a full face-lift and 30-year-old Oliver underwent a neck-lift.

"Goldie felt her face was sagging a bit and wanted to tighten things up," an insider told The ENQUIRER. "And Oliver didn't like the way the skin was hanging underneath his chin."

So they decided on "his and hers" procedures performed the same day within a few hours of each other.

The 61-year-old actress — a mother of three and the longtime partner of actor Kurt Russell — "has a great attitude about a face-lift," says the insider.

"She's not expecting it to change her life, only to change her looks by shaving off a few years.

Oliver Hudson's publicist told The ENQUIRER that it's "absolutely not true" that he had plastic surgery, but these photos tell a different story. The ENQUIRER photographed Oliver leaving the plastic surgery clinic on May 31. You can clearly see his wedding ring and unique tattoo on his ring finger (above left), which is also visible in photos of Oliver taken elsewhere. And the final element of proof is that he hopped into a car outside of the clinic (below) and The ENQUIRER saw the same car at Oliver's house later that day.

"She takes great care of herself, she eats well and exercises, and her body is healthy. She just wanted her face to look a little better."

Goldie is not a plastic surgery newcomer. She has admitted to having her upper and lower eyelids lifted, and the insider maintains she's had previous face-lifts and other cosmetic surgeries.

Oliver — who stars in the CBS comedy "Rules of Engagement" — is still a young man, but he had a quibble with his waddle.

"He saw a side shot of himself on his new show, and noticed he had hanging skin under his chin," revealed the insider.

"He was starting to develop jowls.

"He's on summer hiatus and saw it as a good time to have a neck-lift.

"Goldie and Oliver began counting the days for their surgeries to heal — so they can look in the mirror and see a new and improved mom and son."
