

in Rossdale on Feb. 10, below with Gwen and son Kingston

Pregnancy puts strain on Gwen Stefani's marriage

THERE'S no doubt that Gwen Stefani has turned grouchier with her pregnancy. Just ask her husband Gavin Rossdale.

Gwen, who's normally very easy-going, is upset that her rocker husband wants to go out on tour just when she's about to give birth, according to sources. And she's let him know it!

"Gwen is usually very supportive of

She wants hubby home, he wants to go on tour

Gavin's music, but she feels he's picked the world's worst time to go on tour. She hates the idea of being left alone while she's expecting," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

The 38-year-old "Hollaback Girl" singer is perfectly happy with being the family's main breadwinner — raking in big bucks from her multi-platinum-selling albums and her hit fashion line L.A.M.B., divulged the source.

The high-profile couple, who married in September 2002, has a 22-month-old son, Kingston. They spend most of their time at their Los Angeles home.

BUT BACK IN THE '90S, London-born Gavin rocked the charts with his British grunge band Bush. On April 8, he's set to release his first solo CD,

