"From what I understand, the fight started with Jennifer and Marc discussing where they should live, and it exploded into a huge argument, with Guadalupe jumping in to defend her daughter," confided the insider.

"MAYBE ANGER AND RESENTMENT that Jennifer had been keeping inside was finally unleashed."

According to the source, that bitter blowup may have been the real reason Jennifer appeared solo at the L.A. premiere of Brad Pitt's new movie "The Curious Case of Benjamin Button" on Dec. 8 - without her wedding ring.

While Jennifer was in California, Marc partied in New York City where he was seen on Dec. 5 at the hotspot Marquee until 3:30 a.m.

The next day, he headed to Las Vegas where he partied at the club Lavo, and was photographed with "Desperate Housewives" pal Eva Longoria Parker perched on his lap.

When Marc finally returned to L.A., he and J.Lo dined out together at trendy Luau in Beverly Hills on Dec. 16. Reps for both Marc and J.Lo strongly deny that there are problems in their marriage.

"I think they put on a good show for the cameras, but there's a lot at stake," divulged the insider.

"And it's only a matter of time before another bomb drops in their relationship."

And friends predict it will be tough for Jennifer to forgive her husband for running to his ex.

"Marc and Dayanara have stayed close even after he married Jennifer," said the insider.

"Marc and Jennifer are both so incredibly headstrong that it's a wonder they have lasted as long as they have"
