

THE HOUSE BUILT

Jill Whelan loves to relax in front of the fireplace in her living room (above). She now designs a makes jewelry her dining room table (left). But she really feels at home in her kitchen (bottom left) and making beautiful music on her guitar and piano in her living room (below)

only one episode," Jill explains. "But the show received so many letters from fans, they decided to make me a regular."

When the show finally sank, Jill, then 21, studied English at the University of Guilford in England. In 1993, she married businessman Brad St. John - but within 18 months, just after Harrison was born, they split. The difficult divorce took six years.

Four years ago, she returned to acting and did a one-year stint on the soap The Young and the Restless. But the single mom wanted a steady job.

Now, Jill designs and makes jewelry that she sells to L.A. boutiques and touts on the America Collectible Network and its Web site, www.acntv.com.

She keeps in touch with MacLeod, Bernie Kopell and Ted Lange, but adds that she just got together with the entire Love Boat crew during the recent ABC 50th Anniversary party and "it was great to see everyone all at once."
