in two places at once, and I thought: 'If it were all over tomorrow, what would I regret?' It would be not being there for her," Joely said at the time.

But Daisy's health has improved so dramatically over the last year Joely felt she could return to her role as Julia McNamara on the highly-rated series.

Joely is divorced from Daisy's father, Tim Bevan, a movie producer to whom she was married for five years in the 1990s. The two share custody of their daughter.

"Joely feels Daisy's health has stabilized enough to leave her with Tim. They're very close and Tim and Daisy both urged Joely to go back in front of the cameras," added the source.
