

SEXY TV DOC'S MELTDOWN!

By ROBIN MIZRAHI

Grey's Anatomy star Katherine Heigl had a screaming hissy fit on the set of the hit show, sources have told The National Enquirer.

The 27-year-old blonde plays sensitive intern Dr. Isobel "Izzie" Stevens on ABC's hot medical drama - but insiders say the real Katherine is very different from her TV character.

"Katherine thinks she's a huge star, and entitled to throw disruptive diva fits at the slightest provocation," claims an insider. "The other day she was driven from her trailer to the set a half-hour before she was needed, and you'd think someone had beaten her over the head.

"We heard some blood-curdling screaming, and my first thought was that it was in the script, a patient dying in agony. But I was astounded to see Katherine yelling at the top of her lungs."

The insider says cast members' trailers are a half a mile from the set, and the actors are driven in a golf cart when they're needed.

"It's not as if she had to walk, like crew members and extras, or that it was raining. With the money she makes, you'd think she wouldn't mind waiting around a few minutes until they needed her.

"But there she was, she seemed to be screaming at everyone - the director and crew members. 'You don't know how to do your ***** job! What's the matter with you? Learn how to do your ***** job, why don't you!"

"And all day long, she kept calling her agent, complaining about the incompetence on the set. 'I'm so ***** tired of this,' she kept yelling into the phone.

"Instead of being grateful she's on a top TV show, she's pretty much treating everyone like dirt. We just stood there in disbelief watching her throw her tantrum. Not only did she make a big deal out of nothing, she has no self-control. I've witnessed a lot of diva behavior in Hollywood, but her behavior is the worst I've ever seen."

The insider says the show's other stars, like Patrick Dempsey and Ellen Pompeo, are cheerful and great to work with. "Patrick is nice to the crew and extras. But Katherine won't even look at anyone, except to scream at them."
