

$260,000 ON DRUGS!

y of star's addiction & overdose

Lindsay wrecked her car and received a DUI on May 26. Days later, she passed out in a friend's car after a night of partying crashes, and began earning a reputation for showing up late – or not at all – when she was filming “Herbie Fully Loaded.” She ran herself so ragged she ended up in the hospital.

Throughout 2005 and 2006,

Lindsay continued to spin out of control, going on a crash diet, making enemies of her movie colleagues by holding up production with irresponsible behavior and sudden hospitalizations, and getting dumped by one boyfriend after another, including actor Wilmer Valderrama and restaurateur Harry Morton.

For a year Lindsay lived at the famed Hollywood hotel Chateau Marmont, where she tormented the staff with diva-like demands and held loud, all-night parties. And at one point, she overdosed in her hotel room on a deadly drug mixture of Dilaudid, cocaine and Vicodin.

In January 2007, Lindsay was hospitalized again. She was warned to stop drinking or face dire health consequences.

The same month, she entered rehab to battle her addiction to pain pills, cocaine and alcohol. But she routinely left the Wonderland Center, and sources said she did not take it seriously.

After checking out of rehab, Lindsay hit the Los Angeles club scene harder than ever, even heading out to party the night she left Wonderland.

Although she made a show of carrying around water bottles – which sources reveal were filled with vodka – she was partying non-stop on booze, coke and Ecstasy, and taking downers to sleep.

“I’ve seen a lot of drug use,” disclosed the friend, “but no one – I mean absolutely no one – has abused her body and mind the way Lindsay has.”

Lindsay’s ex-bodyguard, Lee Weaver, was astounded by her out-of-control drug use.

“I lost count of the times I thought she overdosed and had to carry her out of parties,” he said.

“I would pray every night she wouldn’t kill herself on my watch.”

Lindsay has just finished her second rehab stay, and sources say she’s being treated on an outpatient basis now and has a lot to deal with apart from the monumental task of staying sober.

She has legal problems due to her DUI arrest, a career to revive, and her financial situation is shakier, says another insider.

She recently sold her expensive Los Angeles condo.

“Lindsay has been drinking and taking drugs for four years, which means she’s never been a sober adult.

“It’s going to be tough for her to stay away from the $5,000-a-week monkey on her back – especially if she falls back to her old lifestyle and pals.”

Lindsay's DEADLY drug list

These are just some of the deadly drugs Lindsay Lohan has been ingesting, leading to her second trip to rehab.

- Cocaine
- Ecstasy
- OxyContin
- Dilaudid
- Vicodin
- Alcohol
- Various pain pills & downers

by ROBIN MIZRAHI