how Madonna and her friends would pick up men and women off the street, and have sex with them in the back of limos.”

The book is also expected to explore drug use, abortions, miscarriages and the precarious state of Madonna's marriage to British filmmaker Guy Ritchie, said the source.

Madonna has reportedly met with high-powered British attorney Nicholas Mostyn to seek help in stopping the book's publication.

POT SHOTS:
Tom struck
back at Dr.
Drew via his attorney

commented on his devotion to Scientology during a magazine interview.

“A lot of people in the public eye who behave strangely have mental illness we can learn from, and much of it is based on childhood trauma, without a doubt,” said Dr. Drew.

“TAKE A GUY LIKE TOM CRUISE. Why would somebody be drawn into a cultish kind of environment like Scientology? To me, that's a function of a very deep emptiness and suggests serious neglect in childhood – maybe some abuse, but mostly neglect.”

Dr. Kuriansky doesn't let Dr. Drew off the hook for those comments.

Joseph Goebbels

She says he “made an error in singling out Cruise.”

Cruise's lawyer fired back and said: “He seems to be spewing the absurdity that all Scientologists are mentally ill. The last time we heard garbage like this was from Joseph Goebbels.”

He continued his attack when he said of Dr. Drew: “This unqualified television performer who is obviously just looking for notoriety.”

Dr. Drew is an internist who is board certified in addiction medicine,

Medical Director for the Department of Chemical Dependency Services at Las Encinas Hospital in Pasadena, and an Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the Keck USC School of Medicine.

Even with those exceptional credentials, Dr. Kuriansky says: “Dr. Drew, whom I know, is a very professional credentialed doctor who made a mistake by using a highly litigious person like Tom Cruise as his example.”

“Cruise has been very outspoken about his disdain for psychology, and Drew should have known he would not take his remarks in stride.”
