tried to score drugs while having dinner at a restaurant with several friends.

"Out of nowhere she asked one of the girls at the table, whom she'd just met, for her cell phone number because she needed to text-message her," another pal of Mary-Kate told The ENQUIRER.

GOT ANY COKE?

"The girl received a message saying, 'Got any coke?'"

"The girl just looked at Mary-Kate and shook her head, 'No.'"

On another occasion, the actress — who started her career as an infant on the sitcom "Full House" — was so messed up that she practically passed out over lunch.

"Mary-Kate had dark circles under her eyes. She looked as if she hadn't slept for three nights," said her pal.

"Every couple of minutes she'd grab her cell phone, make a call, then hang up. Finally, she got through and said, 'I'll meet you outside.'"

"Mary-Kate left the restaurant, came back in and went straight to the bathroom. Then she returned to the table, wide-awake and refreshed."

"Obviously, she'd met her dealer outside, then got high in the bathroom."

Mary-Kate hit rock-bottom shortly before her 18th birthday on June 13.

TRIP TO MEXICO

She and her sister were planning a trip to Mexico to celebrate — until their father found cocaine in Mary-Kate's bedroom.

"The twins were supposed to leave for Mexico two days after their high school graduation on June 7," Mary-Kate's close friend revealed.

"They partied real hard on graduation night. The next day their father discovered Mary-Kate was doing coke."

"He was furious! He forced her to cancel her trip, while Ashley went with a couple of friends."

The Olsens immediately consulted a drug counselor. They were told Mary-Kate needed to enter rehab before she turned 18 on June 13 — and gained legal control of her life
