

A HARD-PARTYING Mary-Kate Olsen hit the floor in a New York nightclub, according to a source who was at the club.

The eyewitness tells The ENQUIRER that the 20-year-old former "Full House" star fell flat on her face after downing shots of tequila at Manhattan's trendy Bungalow 8.

Two nights later, another eyewitness says Mary-Kate – who's not old enough to drink legally – was partying again at the same Big Apple club.

THE UNDERAGE STAR STARTED her partying late on Monday, Feb. 5 – and continued into the early morning hours of the next day, according to an observer.

While her representatives deny Mary-Kate drinks alcohol, the eyewitness insists "Mary-Kate was with a bunch of guys, downing shots of tequila from a bottle of Patron they'd ordered for their table."

"In between shots she was drinking Red Bull" – so as she got more alcohol in her, she also appeared to get more hyper!

"At one point she started passionately kissing one of the guys, a cute hunk who did not look like her boyfriend Maxwell Snow."

Mary-Kate's head bobbed and her lips slid off his. "It was pretty funny to watch."

The surreal scene took an alarming turn when, according to the eyewitness, Mary-Kate tried to dance on a table – and fell to the floor head-over-heels!

"Mary-Kate got up on the banquette to dance. She was wearing a long-sleeved red dress that was loose and saggy – and her hair was messy," said the source.
