PRISCILLA PRESLEY is 62, but at first glance she looks 40 – unfortunately, it's a “freaky 40.”

Her youthful, but slightly cartoonish appearance is the result of too much plastic surgery, say experts.

“Priscilla is beautiful, but in my opinion she has an unnatural look that screams: ‘plastic surgery’ – and that’s not necessarily a good thing,” Los Angeles-based plastic surgeon Dr. Steven Svehliak – who has not treated her – told The ENQUIRER.

Dr. Svehliak thinks Priscilla – the ex-wife of music icon Elvis Presley – may have undergone a brow lift, upper and lower eyelid surgery, face-lift and neck lift, along with extensive skin and lip treatments.

“A 62-year-old would have a more hollow face due to the natural decrease in facial fat,” he explained.

“In my opinion, Priscilla’s face looks plumper now, so she might have had injections of either Restylane or collagen for volume.”

“She may even have had injections of fat taken from some other part of her body, such as her thighs or hips.”

Her lips also appear to have been plumped up with a filler – perhaps Restylane, collagen, fat injections, silicone or even a permanent implant, he said.

As for her flawless complexion, Priscilla has likely had skin resurfacing treatments, such as laser treatments, facial peels or both.

“Priscilla looks great for her age, but she’s starting to resemble a wax figure,” said Dr. Svehliak. by ROBIN MIZRAHI
